Occupational Health and Safety Policy of FerroČrtalič d.o.o.

The management has defined the occupational health and safety policy with the aim of preventing workplace injuries and health impairments, and with the goal of continuously improving the condition, controlling, and preventing risks to the safety and health of workers in the company's business processes and operations.

The core principles of the occupational health and safety policy are:

- Implement and improve the occupational health and safety system with the aim of eliminating hazards and preventing risks to workers' safety and health.
- Enhance awareness of obligations regarding occupational health and safety (OHS) for employees and those working under the company's supervision.
- Carry out work without injuries, incidents, or events that could lead to injuries.
- Reduce mental and sensory strain to improve the well-being of workers.
- Raise awareness about workplace safety and personal health.
- Comply with legal and regulatory obligations, standards requirements, technical regulations, and other requirements related to occupational health and safety.
- Engage in consultations and collaborate with workers or their representatives.
- The OHS policy is available to interested parties and is periodically reviewed.
